The south west's biggest renewable energy event

Renewable Futures is Regen SW's annual conference and trade show, and the biggest renewable energy event in the south west of England. This year it will focus on how, in the south west, we can not only maintain the success of our sustainable energy sector, but also how we can drive forward, make the most of existing opportunities, and achieve growth in the current economic climate.

Renewable Futures is a 'must attend' event for private, public, and third sector representatives involved in the south west's sustainable energy industry.

The venue

The sixth annual Renewable Futures conference will be held from 10-11 November 2009 at the assembly Rooms in Bath.

Sponsorship opportunity

This is your opportunity to be associated with Regen SW and Renewable Futures '09 – from the first day that information is sent out, webpages go online and delegates begin to sign up, right through to event itself, where prominent branding, speaker opportunities and the chance to push your business will be available. It's a high-profile event, attended by many of the most prominent individuals and businesses in the sector.

Opening plenary and 'Any Questions' by Jonathan Dimbleby

This is the first year that the conference will have been held in Bath, and opening plenary and debate will be hosted by Radio 4's 'Any Questions' host Jonathan Dimbleby. This will help make the event, once again, one of the most desirable sustainable energy events in the calendar, while raising its profile further on a national stage.

The package

- Joint headline sponsorship of the conference
- An opportunity to speak at the main plenary
- Mention and thanks by Regen SW chief executive at the main plenary
- Four free delegate passes to the conference
- Free, prominent exhibition space
- Banner in main exhibition area
- Joint branding with Regen SW on:
 - the stage at the main plenary
 - the overhead presentation at the main plenary
 - the Renewable Futures microsite/webpage
 - design of marketing materials for Renewable Futures
- Link to company website from Regen SW website
- Company information on Renewable Future webpages
- Mentions in Regen SW e-bulletin
- Opportunity to provide branded pens and paper to delegates

The cost

£7,500, for joint headline sponsorship, though sole sponsorship will be considered for the appropriate fee.
